The Day We Celebrated Yesterday and How Athenians Observed It

In the band manner in which each holiday should be observed Athens educational system yesterday was celebrated with a number of festivities.

In the morning, after the regular meeting of the Board of Education, the Astronomer of Science gave a lecture on the planets and the stars. He spoke of the beauty of the night sky, and the interesting phenomena that can be seen there. He also discussed the different types of stars and their characteristics.

At noon, there was a picnic at the campus, where the students enjoyed a variety of delicious foods. The weather was pleasant, and the atmosphere was filled with joy.

In the evening, there was a grand light parade through the streets of Athens. The parade was decorated with colorful floats, and many bands played as the parade made its way through the city. The parade concluded with a grand fireworks display.

The day ended with a special concert at the university auditorium. The performers included the university orchestra and a group of prominent musicians from Athens. The concert was a great success, and the audience was greatly entertained.

The Day of Athenians

The Athenian is a publication of the University of Athens. It is a student-run newspaper that covers local news, events, and happenings. The paper is published weekly and is distributed throughout the Athens community. It is a valuable resource for information about the university and its students.

UNLucky Day For Georgia Yesterday

High School Team Defeated Team From the University in Fast Game 16 to 6.

Yesterday seemed an unlucky day for Georgia, as the Athens team in Savannah was defeated by the University team in Fast Game 16 to 6.

The game was played on the Savannah College grounds, and the University team was victorious. The University team was led by its star player, John Smith, who scored all the University points.

The loss was a disappointment for the Georgia team, but they are looking forward to their next game, which is scheduled for next week.

SILENT FOR DOLLAR

For Three Minutes Wednesday Afternoon

A Dollar-

The Thames telephone company cased the office in a silence for three minutes. The news was read out over the intercom to the operators. The silence was broken by a dollar being dropped into the box at the front of the office.

The latest news from the London office was that the United States had declared war on Germany. The dollar was a symbol of the patriotic spirit of the country.

LITTLE BARN WAS BURIED YESTERDAY

Yesterday at Walthall the two Attorneys were buried. The barn was burned, the funeral occurred at the same time. The crowd was large, and the funeral was attended by many people.

A FIRE ON THE ROOF OF THE BAR

Contrary to the report of the morning paper, there was no fire on the roof of the barn. The fire was started by a lightning bolt, and the barn was saved.

The Barn was the last barn standing in the county, and the news of its destruction was a great loss to the community.
